

Alexander C. Razavi, MD, MPH, PhD

Cardiology Fellow, Department of Internal Medicine, Emory University School of Medicine; American Heart Association Committee Member, Council on Epidemiology and Prevention

Dr. Razavi is a Cardiology Fellow in the Department of Internal at Medicine at Emory University. He earned his PhD in Epidemiology and MPH in Health Systems Management at Tulane's School of Public Health and Tropical Medicine, and he earned his Medical Degree at Tulane University School of Medicine. His research interests involve atherosclerotic cardiovascular risk-assessment using coronary artery calcium scoring, identifying novel mechanisms underlying vascular aging, and nutrition. He is also a committee member of the Council on Epidemiology and Prevention of the American Heart Association