

Michelle M. Kittleson, MD, PhD

Director of Postgraduate Education in Heart Failure and Transplantation,
Director of Heart Failure Research, and Professor of Medicine, Smidt Heart
Institute, Cedars-Sinai

Michelle Kittleson is Professor of Medicine at Cedars-Sinai and Director of Education in Heart Failure and Transplantation at the Smidt Heart Institute. She graduated from Harvard College and received her medical degree from Yale University. She completed residency training at Brigham and Women's Hospital and cardiology fellowship at Johns Hopkins, where she also received a PhD in Clinical Investigation. Dr. Kittleson has served on writing committees for the ACC/AHA Hypertrophic Cardiomyopathy Guidelines and HF Guidelines, is a past member of the Board of Directors for the Heart Failure Society of America, past Interim Editor-in-Chief of the Journal of Heart and Lung Transplantation, and current Associate Editor for the Journal of the American College of Cardiology. She is also a recipient of the ACC Distinguished Teacher of the Year Award in 2025. Her essays and poems have appeared in the New England Journal of Medicine, JAMA, JAMA Cardiology, and Annals of Internal Medicine. Her book, Mastering the Art of Patient Care, is available from Springer publishing.